

Supplemental Security Income (SSI) for Children: What is it, who is it for, and how can the Education System help?

How can SSI for children help?

- Stabilizing income for children (and their families) in your district who are at-risk of or experiencing homelessness

Who is eligible?

- Children (birth to turning age 18) with a physical or mental impairment that causes marked or severe functional limitations
- Children and families with low income and resources
- Note: If a child is unmarried, lives with their parents, and their parents do not receive SSI, a portion of the parents' income and resources may be considered

How can I contribute and help a child access resources?

- Identify children who are experiencing or at risk of homelessness who have a serious mental illness, medical impairment, and/or a co-occurring substance use disorder
- Fill out an SSA-5665 Teacher Questionnaire (when requested by SOAR case worker or DDS)
- Write a letter documenting the child's limitations in functioning and supportive services provided when requested by Disability Determination System (DDS) or the SOAR case worker
- Assist with gathering educational evidence, such as: 504 plans, Individualized Education Program (IEP) records, IQ testing, special education services, school counseling, disciplinary reports
- Gather medical evidence, such as hospital or clinic records and psychiatric evaluations, and arrange for additional testing as appropriate
- Identify counselors or staff that could assist families and SOAR Leads or case workers with the application process
